"Fire Prevention Week"

October 9th to 15th

Fire Brigade To Sponsor Scholarship

The Coleman Volunteer Fire Brigade are going all out in support of the Fire Prevention Week as the brigade have already visited the schools in Coleman where fire drills were held. The West Coleman school was cleared of all children in 55 seconds and the main school in central Coleman was completely cleared of all students in a matter of 65 seconds.

During the afternoons the students were given lectures and talks on fire prevention and demonstrations were held in the school yard where the pupils were shown how various fire fighting equipment including extinguishers operated.

An interesting demonstration on the operation of Coleman's pump unit and Booster reel was provided for the pupils.

With fire prevention week lasting from October 9 to 15, Fire Chief Henry Zak, Jr. has urged all the citizens of Coleman to participate in the effort and check attics for possible fire hazards such as oily rags, papers and faulty wiring. A complete check of basements should also be made as well as taking precautions to see that chimneys are cleaned of an accumulation of soot which accounts for a good many fires.

The poster and essay contests, sponsored by the fire brigade for the Coleman students, will be judged this week and presentation of prizes will be made by Fire Inspector J. Leyland of Lethbridge, who will also give an address to the students.

The brigade has also announced that the firemen will sponsor a $25 cash scholarship next term for the student in Coleman grade twelve attaining the second highest marks for their year's work.

Some of the proceeds from the present sale of tickets for the firemen's annual ball and draw for a radio are earmarked for this worthy cause. The firemen's annual dance will be held in the Elks hall on Friday, November 4.

Unseen Industry Benefits Canadians Everywhere

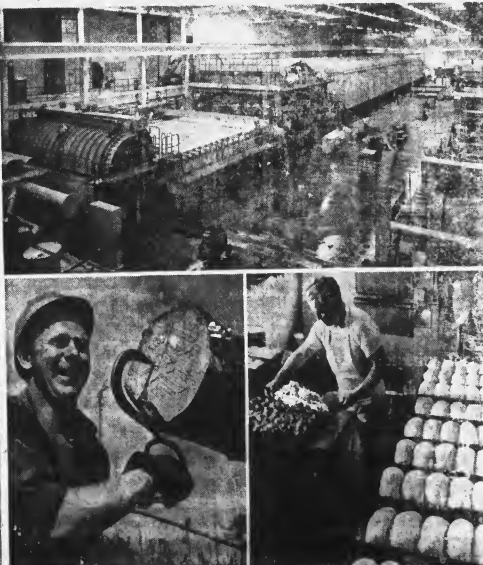

National Pulp and Paper Day Marks 150 Years of National Contributions

Canada's pulp and paper mills, generally located in the hinterlands, are unseen by most Canadians, yet the entire country benefits from the operations of this one great enterprise that is the nation's leading producer and exporter.

The pulp and paper mills convert the forest harvest into a variety of products, including the print for this and all other Canadian newspapers. In addition to meeting Canada's paper, paperboard, and pulp requirements, the industry accounts for more than a fifth of the value of all Canada's exports. The industry is also the nation's leading manufacturing employer and wage-payer. Hence, its operations stimulate and quicken every facet of trade, commerce, agriculture, and business in the land. For example, pulp and paper is the chief user of the railways and by far the leading consumer of electric power in Canada. It is also a leading buyer of chemicals, mill supplies, and industrial equipment.

To feed their woodworkers alone, the mills buy each year some 14 million pounds of meat, 20 million eggs, 10 million pounds of flour, 3 million cases of canned milk and more than 6 million pounds of powdered milk and other dry foods. Thus the industry is also a leading purchaser of agricultural commodities.

In a pulp and paper day statement, R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association said, "This day will serve to remind us that we are in a period in which the world will make increasing demands upon Canada's pulp and paper trade."

A giant newsprint machine (top), as long as a football field, may spin out 20-foot ribbon of paper at speeds of more than twenty miles an hour. Canadian mills, with a newsprint output three times that of any other country, supply almost half the free world's newspaper pages. Each day they produce the equivalent of a five-foot ribbon of paper stretching from Toronto to Baghdad. Below, a pulp and paper logger gets ready to move a log, the industry's raw material, while a camp cook prepares a daily batch of pastries and bread.

Conservative estimates reveal that world demand will double in the next fifteen years, and that Canada, with her resources, will be in a position to increase greatly her foreign trade. This will provide still further opportunities for the millions of Canadians whose livelihood depends, directly and indirectly, on the well-being of the pulp and paper mills. With a variety of events, the forests upon which the prosperity of the industry are set, it is a day as a reminder.

Jury Rules "Accidental Death"

A Coroner's Jury, investigating the death of Nick Capola, 36, a Coleman mine worker, returned a verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to anyone at an inquest held in Blairmore Thursday, October 6th.

The verdict also indicated that Mr. Capola had come to his death in the Crows Nest Pass Municipal Hospital at about 2:00 a.m. on May 24, 1960, as the result of injuries he sustained in a mine mishap at Vicary Mine on May 18, at about 4:05 p.m. during the course of his duties when he was squeezed between a mine car and a rotary dump. Cause of death was abdominal injuries and resulting complications.

The jury recommended that the Coleman Collieries install proper mechanically operated stop blocks to separate loads and provide adequate distance between blocked cars and the dump. Proper sand boxes with scoop should also be installed near the dump.

The jury, under direction of Provincial Coroner M. M. Cantor, M.D. of Edmonton, comprised Vern DeCoux, foreman; Robert Munson, Alrik Tiberg, Arthur Williams, Ron Pantin and Steve Kuban.

Plans of the accident scene were provided by Arthur Graham, mine surveyor, of Coleman Collieries.

Dr. Emil Aiello of Coleman gave evidence of the extent of Mr. Capolo's injuries, adding that Dr. Baillie, of Lethbridge, pathologist, had performed an autopsy. Evidence was also given by Rudolph Rossi of Bellevue, who was working with Capola at the time of the mishap and by driver boss John Kulig of Coleman District Mines Inspector Phillip Nelson also gave evidence.

The evidence given would indicate that Mr. Capola, assisted by Mr. Rossi, were in the midst of dumping three two-ton mine cars of coal in a rotary dump. Mr. Rossi had placed a sprag in the wheel of the second and third loads of the slow moving trip and Mr. Capola was attempting to uncouple the first car from the moving trip to bring it into the dump. Rainy weather made the tracks slippery and allowed the trip to slide on the tracks and after Mr. Capola successfully cut off the first load it went completely through the dump and the slow moving other two cars of coal pinned him between the dump and the car when he sustained his injuries. He was taken to the Crows Nest Pass Municipal Hospital by car.

"Be frank about cancer," say Canadian women

About two-thirds of Canadian women believe that a doctor should be frank with a patient who develops cancer, a nation-wide study conducted for the Canadian Cancer Society reveals.

Interviews of 2524 women in all parts of Canada also showed that Canadian women know significantly more about cancer than they did six years ago.

The opinion that "the doctor should tell" was held by 64 per cent of those questioned, compared to 58 per cent in a similar questionnaire conducted in 1954. Only 14 per cent believed the doctor should not tell, a drop from 23 per cent, and 11 per cent thought his degree of frankness should depend on the person concerned.

About nine women out of ten in both surveys were of the opinion that there should be more public discussion of cancer symptoms and treatment.

The revelation that 71 per cent of Canadian women now know that cancer can be cured, as compared to only 63 per cent in 1954, indicates, says the Society, "that there has been some clear progress in the dissemination of cancer information among Canadian women."

The percentage of women realizing the necessity of early treatment of cancer likewise rose during the period from 80 to 87 per cent.

Moreover, most women this year correctly placed heart trouble as the leading cause of death with cancer in its proper second place, rather than in reverse order as they did in 1954.

Another fact emerging from the study, which was conducted by Canadian Facts Limited, is that in 1960, 92 per cent of women correctly placed breast cancer as the most common type of cancer in women — in 1954 only 82 per cent were aware of this fact.

The study was conducted to assess the results of the Canadian Cancer Society's education program to suggest ways in which it could be improved. Personal home interviews were conducted with women 21 years of age and over by experienced interviewers during June and early July of this year. Each woman was asked a list of 26 questions drawn up by the Society, many of them identical to those asked during the 1954 study.

The results showed that although information regarding cancer of the breast is widespread, knowledge of other forms of cancer has not kept pace. Knowledge of cancer of the womb, for example, has shown virtually no advance in the past six years and cancers of the stomach, bowels and lungs are even less understood. There was made recognition, however, that radiation therapy and surgery are the most important methods of treatment for cancer.

Television proved to be the most prevalent source of information about cancer, 53 per cent of those questioned having seen TV cancer programs or publicity.

Newspapers were the second most important source, followed by Cancer Society pamphlets — seen by 27 per cent — then radio, organized discussions, magazines and meetings. Twenty-four per cent of the women had had some personal experience with the disease.

Officials of the Cancer Society are of the opinion that its nationwide education program has been a contributing factor in the steady increase in the percentage of cancer patients who report their disease at an early stage and, as a result, in the percentage who live at least five years after their disease has been discovered.

of $522,700. With only three months to go until the end of the year the current Red Cross campaign is short some $56,000 of reaching its goal.

In an effort to make up this shortage an appeal for funds is being made through the mails to residents in districts which have not had an organized Red Cross cam-

Receipts to date in the Alberta Red Cross campaign are $466,560.

Forest Road Is Regravelled For Visitors

(O.R.T.A. Bulletin)

Alberta's Department of Lands and Forests has arranged the regraveling of the first 80 miles of the multi-million dollar forestry road that runs through the foothills from Coleman to Nordegg.

The regraveling is part of a regular program requiring the whole road, sections at a time, to be regravelled every three years.

In about two years, the whole 600 miles of road from Goodwin to the Peace River area to Coleman will be gravelled and open to travel.

A 20-mile stretch between Nordegg and the Brazeau is at present under construction, and forbids travel the whole length of the road. It is still a dry weather trip though except on gravelled parts.

Success in School!

Now that your child is in school you are naturally concerned about his or her progress.

One of the most important factors in school progress is vision.

Your Optometrist suggests that you watch carefully for symptoms of vision problems. Slow reading, losing place while reading, complaints of words and lines "running together", confusing of letters, are some of the problems. These may be accompanied by frowning, squinting, excessive blinking or even restlessness, fatigue and other physical factors.

A complete visual analysis by your Optometrist will determine whether or not a vision problem is a significant factor in your child's achievement.

Four Coleman hunters, Paul Flilowich, Eddie Belter, Lorne Ferschweiler and Skip Gettman enjoyed a successful trip on September 24th.

The men all using 30.06 calibre rifles shot two fine trophies north and west of Crows Nest Mountain.

They left their car early in the morning and split up in pairs with Paul Flilowich and Skip Gettman climbing the rocky hills near the Seven Sisters where they shot a large specimen of a goat which had horns measuring nine inches.

Eddie Belter and Lorne Ferschweiler went in another direction, and met up with a large grizzly, which is estimated to be about six years old, and weighing in at over 500 pounds.

Paul and Skip took some eight shots to drop the goat, while Lorne and Eddie pumped 12 shots into the grizzly before dropping the large animal. The hunters plan to have the goat's head mounted and the grizzly made into a rug.

The Browns have been visiting us - looking at our hydro plants, our transmission lines, our thermal plants, at many of the phases of our work that together form a complete picture of our service. Yet here at home, in their own kitchen, they are seeing and using the most familiar expression of electrical energy. The Browns, like a growing number of Albertans, enjoy the modern, fully automatic, convenient kitchen (and other home facilities) that only electricity can provide. This is the part of us most people know - in the home doing the countless jobs that make life easier and better.

We are happy to bring you the 20th century servant, electricity, in the most dependable and economical way possible.

COLEMAN VOTERS

On Wednesday, October 19, the electors are asked to come out to choose two members for the Town Council. Two men, who have served on the Town Council for many years, have again allowed their names to be entered in the nominations. These two men, JOHN RAMSAY and GEORGE JENKINS, are original members of the first Directors of the Coleman Light and Water Co. under Town control and have assisted in formulating the policy which has been of such great assistance to the taxpayers since that time. There are many centers with the utilities, but none have been able to show such outstanding success as that in Coleman.

Both Mr. Ramsay and Mr. Jenkins have served on the Council for over 18 years with the welfare of all the citizens always in mind. There are times when this is very difficult. As members of the Council and the committee on Light & Water, these men have served on it since that time. It was the decision of this first Board of Directors that decided to keep the company as a separate operation from the Town, with such wonderful results for the people.

This experience that Mr. Ramsay and Mr. Jenkins have had may be of the utmost importance in the next few years as there may be very important matters coming before the Council requiring decisions that can only be made from the knowledge acquired through experience. There appears to be a trend towards greater benefits for the enjoyment of the citizens, and these two men believe in providing for the people any improvements that can be acquired.
